"We buy a ticket on the train to success."

Garrett High School . . .

Our Train to Success

Nearly every student of Garrett High School has at one time or another heard the whistle of a diesel and the powerful thrust of the engines as a train pulls out. Garrett itself was built because of the railroad, and it has remained a major industry of the community.

Garrett High School is like a train. There are six cars, numbered seven through twelve. To the passengers in cars seven through eleven, the train travels much too slowly; however, to those in car twelve, it travels too fast.

As a student leaves the sixth grade and enters the seventh, he buys a ticket on the train which leads to success. He then travels through studies, meets friends, and attends social activities.

Come with us now as we lead you through the year of the "twist," past Council Capers, and over the Auburn Devils.

There's the "toot" of the whistle. The train is heading for success. Turn the page. Let's go.

ALL ABOARD!

Fun and Frolic

Our train to success is composed mainly of the everyday school life, as we learn and have fun through the year. Cheering the team on to victory, meeting at various clubs, and dancing away hours at record hops make our trip enjoyable.

"Thirty cents please," says Donna Musser as Douglas Opdycke, Tom Stebing, and Steve Smith enter the lunch room ready for their dinner.

The bleachers are filled every football game as each student heartily cheers the team on to another victory.

School life leaves

Juniors Donna Emerick and Annetta Davis prepare for the first big dance after the football game by placing colored footballs on the curtains with each player's name inscribed on them.

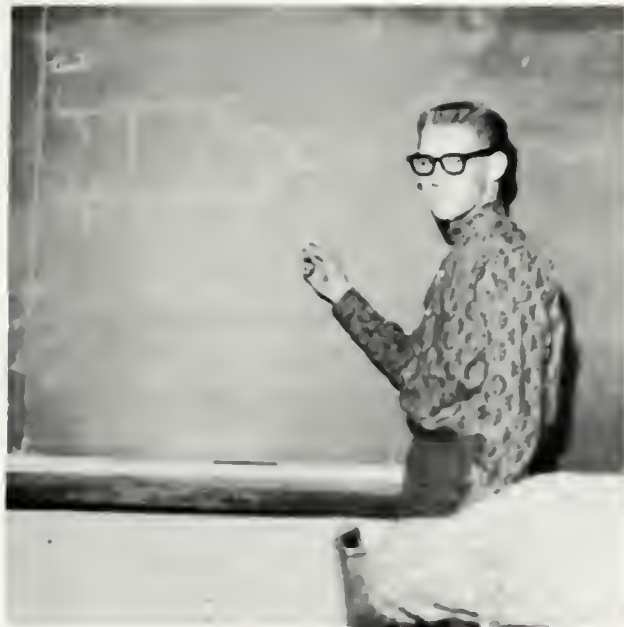

After lunch, students spend their remaining time in the auditorium dancing and playing basketball.

A regular occurrence is the delivery of coal as the men lower the truck to fill the bins with coal for keeping the school warm.

treasured memories,

David Frey learns the fundamentals of sentence diagramming in Sophomore English.

Every day at G.H.S. is filled with activities and action. From studying over a book to yelling at a football game, from dancing to the latest songs to rushing from class to class, the students of G.H.S. are always busy.

Seniors Kenny Rathert, Carolyn Fleet, and Mike Muzzillo prepare programs for the senior play as Mr. Stackhouse supervises.

Dan Haffner seems quite unaware of the commotion going on around him as Larry Lovette, Dave Gradeless and Steve Fike change books for their next class.

Following the traditional snake dance before the Auburn game, the reserve and varsity cheerleaders put on a demonstration of the pre-game warm-up in the big gym.

To start the new year off right, Marcia Tharpe crosses her fingers in hopes of getting her name on the honor roll board.

Provides Competition . . .

On the kickoff day of the magazine sale Mr. Stackhouse, as emcee of the assembly program, goes off to rehearse for "Faculty Fractures."

Activity and excitement were the key words at G.H.S. this year. With the leadership of the seventh grade, the magazine sale was a huge success. The honor roll board was bigger than ever, and our athletes had another good year.

The faculty of the high school and grade school discuss student problems in their regular meetings.

Becky Teders, as Miss Garrett, awaits the start of the Auburn fair with her attendants: Bonnie Owens, Dottie Secrest, and Patty Shafer.

To learn how the newspaper is put together Patsy Eberhard, Connie Kolbe, and Roger Noel observe the mechanisms of the Journal-Gazette press on a tour of the Building.

Widens Knowledge . . .

Nancy Capin shows her mother the bracelet she received for her scholastic achievement at the honor banquet.

The Aeolian Hop is a time for signing yearbooks, not dancing, as students Bill Corry, Bob Clark, George Hathway, Blaine Feightner, and Larry Barnhart pass their books to be autographed.

Entering the Regional Achievement Contest are: SEATED--Tom Baldwin, Comprehensive Math; Dan Haffner, Algebra II; Steve Fike, Algebra II; Bill Corry, Geometry. STANDING--Jerry Thomas, Comprehensive Math; and Tom Wheeler, Geometry.

Roger Stroman, Alan Leiter, and Joe Mahnesmith take time from their studies to listen to the orbital flight of spaceman John Glenn.

The true function of the school is to enrich the minds of its students. GHS accomplishes this goal very well. Students enter contests, read books to enrich their minds, and study to better themselves.

Induces Scholarship,

Kennetha Brown and Linda Freeman decorate the hall in preparation for the tourney.

Entering the Language Contest are: SEATED--Mike Moody, English; Joe Rowe, Spanish; Phil Sweeney, English; Ann Wysong, Spanish. STANDING--Danny Baker, Latin II; Esther Warstler, English; Larry Cattell, Max Freeman, Latin I; Mike Thomas, Latin II; Marcia Tharpe, English.

All minds are at work as students prepare their lessons in fourth period study hall despite the crowded conditions.

and Broadens Interests.

Judy Johoski and Steve Fike, co-chairmen of the Jr.-Sr. Banquet, search for a theme for the coming event.

Sophomore Larry Warstler proudly displays his class sweater of beige with brown letters trimmed in white.

"An Evening with the Gods" is about to begin as the newly decorated auditorium is filled with guests full of excitement about the big event.

The day before the banquet is filled with work as Sherry Hunter and Mike Muzzillo hang crepe paper to adorn the auditorium ceiling.

Banquet and Picnic

The Junior-Senior Banquet moved through the evening with great speed last May. The Juniors had spent many hours preparing the feast, and both they and the Seniors enjoyed a very happy "Evening With the Gods."

Following the banquet, everyone attended the all-night party at the Elks lodge and Gala theatre. The all-night party was followed by breakfast at the Eagles Lodge.

After the breakfast, a very tired group of teenagers filed to their homes, filled with happy memories never to be forgotten.

Servers Sharon Graham, Janice Shafer, Bob Snook, and Tom Keefer make last minute preparations before the entrance of the guests.

Tom Steinmetz, Dusty Barry, and Jim Parker are among the many who devour the delicious foods brought to the picnic.

The day at the picnic is filled with enjoyment as the junior girls show their ability in pyramid building.

On November 3rd and 4th, 1961, the Senior Class presented the 3-act comedy, PIONEER GO HOME. The play consisted of the biggest cast (some of which are mentioned directly to the left), brought in the biggest profits, and played before the biggest audiences of all time. The play was indeed a smashing success.

The director was a newcomer to the business, Mr. Richard Smith, and the make-up was handled by Mr. Hubert Stackhouse.

Meeting and Maturing

Our train to success is greatly composed of social activities. To be thoroughly educated in all aspects of life, one must know how to get along with his fellowman.

The education of the passengers on a social basis is accomplished through the clubs of G.H.S. Meeting every other Friday, the organizations of the school provide fun, recreation, and education to many students.

Leading the Y-Teens are: Dianne Wetoskey, secretary; Virginia Leech, vice president; Sandra Pfierman, president; and Sherrill Terry, treasurer.

The new officers are installed in the spring in a program held for the mothers.

Y Clubs Promote

"To know ourselves and others" is the main theme of the Y-Teens. With Sandy Pfierman as president, the club participated in many rewarding projects. Several of the projects were: the coat check at basketball games, snowman corsages, holly wreaths, and a semi-formal dance combined with the Hi-Y.

Filling in the programs were guest speakers and skits. Mrs. Mary Mellott and Mrs. Doris Menges, club advisors, worked to keep the club running smoothly.

Members of the decoration committee for the semi-formal dance, Eric Bickel, Skip Claxton, and Roger Stroman plan for the big event.

Eric Bickel and Steve Fike decorate the auditorium with snowflakes in preparation for "Snowflake Fantasy."

One of the more prominent and important clubs in the school is the Hi-Y Club. The club is composed of boys in the Junior and Senior years of school.

The Hi-Y sponsors many projects for the betterment of the school and community. To raise money for these projects, record hops, car washes, and paper drives were held during the year. The biggest event of the year was "Snowflake Fantasy" held in cooperation with the Y-Teen Club.

Eric Bickel, Dottie Secrest, Cork Miller, and Pat Shafer dance to the music of Bob Sander's band at the Hi-Y, Y-Teen semi-formal.

Planning the agenda for the next program are Danny Baker, secretary; Hudson Freeze, treasurer; Mike Thomas, president; and John Moats, vice president.

Keith Bunn adjusts the loud speaker system in preparation for his job of emcee at the semi-formal dance.

Y Organizations Keep

Terry Howiler and Arthur Gunion vote for the queen of the Jr. Hi-Y, Blue Triangle semi-formal dance, Winter Wonderland.

The Jr. Hi-Y is the biggest organization of underclass boys in the school. Its movements affect the life of the student body very sharply. The biggest event of the year for the Jr. Hi-Y was the dance "Winter Wonderland" co-sponsored with the Blue Triangle. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Flora and Mr. Bratton the club was a great success through the year.

Linda Fleet makes her sister, Dawn, get on her knees and recite the oath during the Blue Triangle Initiation.

Sally Weimer, secretary; Diane Miller, treasurer; Margaret Crowe, vice president; and Carol Rugman, president, seek ideas for their next meeting.

Blue Triangle is a rush of activity for Freshman and Sophomore girls. The club has earned a reputation as one of the busiest clubs in the school, and this year was no exception. The club sold Christmas cards and co-sponsored the semi-formal with the Jr Hi-Y. Miss Eldridge and Miss Winje helped the club have an enjoying and exciting year.

Sophomores Karen Rowe and Jill Thomas work on decorations for the Blue Triangle--Jr. Hi-Y semi-formal.

Steve Mulligan, Dennis Feagler, Coleen DePew, Jim Kelham, president, Kathy Mulligan, vice president, and Jackie Weller plan for the magazine sale.

Dave Frey, Sally Bertsch, Vic Hunter, Cindy Strobel, and Virginia Leech, secretary, observe as Mike Reese works on the athletic board.

Pat Shafer, treasurer, Tim Kolbe, Randy Rupp, Nancy Hilkey, and Randy Davis look over the new synchronized clock system.

Karen Rowe, Arthur Cobbs, Phil Sweeney, Rhonda Ballentine, and Steve Fike show Mr. Stackhouse the year's assembly programs.

Democracy in Action

Supporting new improvements around our school, the Student Council has had a very progressive year. The annual magazine sale was held in the fall and was a big success. Money from the sale went to future assembly programs and a new synchronized clock system.

The council installed a pay telephone for student use. The third "Council Capers" was held in the spring, with each organization or class entering. The money from this program was used for several other projects.

Kenneth Nodine finds the time and Margaret Crowe checks her watch with the new clocks.

Science is so important to our age that the Science Club gains new importance every day. Headed by Mr. Jack Bateman, the Science Club takes part in many activities including trips to Fort Wayne to listen to famous speakers and trips to the library to study new findings in the field of science.

To gain money for new equipment the members of the club sold Christmas candy under the direction of Mr. William Linder.

Directing the activities of the Science Club are: SEATED--Judy Johoski, secretary; Steve Fike, vice president. STANDING--Sharon James, librarian; Becky Teders, treasurer; Dan Haffner, president; and Mr. Bateman, advisor.

Ablatives and Atoms

Planning their next meeting are: SEATED--Mrs. Love, advisor. STANDING--Linda Fleet, vice president; Peg Redmond, treasurer; Rosie McGrath, song leader; Mike Caywood, president; Diane Miller, secretary.

"Veni, vidi, vici." These words are a sort of motto for one of the younger organizations of GHS, the Latin Club. Meeting every other Tuesday night, the Latin Club was a huge success among Freshman and Sophomore Latineers. Under the leadership of Mrs. Love the club held record hops, had parties, initiated new members, and topped the year off with the banquet.

Cindy Schaab, president, explains the procedures of cadet teaching to Ginny Leech, vice president, and Kathy Mulligan, secretary.

Future Teachers

Mr. Richard Smith originated and continues to sponsor the Future Teachers of America in our school.

An added feature to this organization is that credit can be earned through completion of a semester of student teaching in the Ober School. This teaching experience is helpful in a senior's decision to enter the field of teaching.

Clubs Offer Vocational Training.

Highlighting the year for the Future Farmers of America was the Auburn Fair. Topping the events at the fair was the winning of the Showmanship Award by Larry Weller. Money raising projects of the club were high on the slate of activities, and these included the selling of candy, and the sponsorship of record hops. Paul Bateman led the club through the year.

Sophomore FFA member Jim Shutt prepares his sheep for the judging at the DeKalb County Fair.

Mrs. Sweeney shows the new bookends to librarians Judy Knott, Beverly Thomson, Jackie Weller, and Lona Gamble.

Librarians

Assisting Mrs. Sweeney in the library are the student librarians. They are kept busy replacing books on the shelves and checking outgoing books. Their work is appreciated both by Mrs. Sweeney and the student body.

Students Assist in Functions

Most of the behind-the-scenes work done in GHS is done by the members of the Operators Club. From keeping the loud speaking system going at games to showing films for a class meeting, the club is one of the more important groups in the school.

With the assistance of advisor Mr. Paul Bateman, the club worked steadily at nearly all major programs of the year.

Merle Bright practices one of the many skills learned in Operators Club as he sets up a movie projector.

Operators Club

The officers of the band are: SEATED--Sandy Pfierman, President; Roger Kolbe, Equipment Manager. STANDING--Carolyn Shaffer, Librarian; Jackie Hollis, Secretary-Treasurer; Ray Cole, Director; Julia Bennett, Student Director; Helen Hall, Vice-President.

Entertainment during the half-time of games and during many assemblies was provided by the Railroader band.

President Sandy Pfierman and Drum Majorette Karen Shenk led the band in various activities to collect funds for the purchase of new uniforms.

Individual members of the band participated in various contests in the area, to complete a successful year.

And the band plays on.

Composing the reed section are: SEATED-- Steve Hazeltine, Linda Kelley, Julia Bennett, Roger Kolbe, Barbara Lemper. STANDING--Kenny Yingling, Barry Brown, Keitha Griffin, Kennetha Brown, Janos Ratrie, Carolyn Shaffer.

Cheering their team in the pre-game warm up, the spirited pep squad fills the gymnasium with its enthusiastic yells.

Cheering for Victory

Heading the list of student cheering fans at the basketball games is the pep squad. Composed of 115 girls, it is the key to student enthusiasm. Under the leadership of Sherry Hunter and Miss Lewis, the pep squad has made many formations, including a train and the letter "G."

Every fourth Monday night meetings are held. The seniors presented a Rail-roader train skit at one game with the squad chanting with them. The result was a run-down Auburn Devil.

The squad also traveled to the tournament to give the team support.

Leading the Pep-Squad for the year were: Jenny Kelham, treasurer; Sherry Hunter, president; and Rosie McGrath, secretary.

Rosie McGrath and Jenny Kelham check the seating arrangement at all home games.

Outlining the schedule for GAA are: SEATED, Becky Steward, president; STANDING, Susie Hipskind, treasurer; Becky Teders, secretary; and Sheri Miller, vice-president.

Fighting Femininity

All eyes are on the ball as members of Connie Kolbe's team contemplate their return volley.

Becky Teders springs in a serve as Kathy Mulligan and LaDonna Ringler look on.

Being the main athletic organization for girls, the Girls' Athletic Association draws many spirited members. The two main sports are basketball and volleyball. Teams are chosen by the captains, and they compete in a round robin type of tourney.

After the two sports are completed, a banquet is held in potluck style. Awards are given to the winning teams, the best sport, and the high scorer. Miss Lewis puts much effort toward making the club a success.

Jenny Kelham's team, composed of Wava Maggert, Jenny Kelham, Elaine Denes, Mary Lepley, Paula Livergood, Janos Ratrie, and Sherry Bertsch, shout for victory.

Working through the year to make the yearbook a success were: Ginny Leech, Connie Kolbe, assistant editors; Tom Baldwin, editor-in-chief; Mr. Richardson, advisor; and Sandy Pfierman, typist.

Long before school took up the Aeolian staff was hard at work. Long hours were spent making schedules for pictures, drawing up final copy, and meeting deadlines. Last minute work kept the editors and typists busy long after other students had left for home. But writing the book was fun.

Planning the subscription drive are: Sheri Miller, production manager; Esther Warstler, business manager; Sherry Hunter, Advertising manager; Dianne Wetoskey, circulation manager; Becky Teders, exchange manager; and Kay Reed, assistant advertising manager.

Deadlines Keep Us Busy

Beginning the year with a fresh slate consisting of new reporters, green editors and managers, a new list of advertisers, and a new printer, the Maroon and Blue Streamliner was promptly distributed the first day of the school year.

Highlighting the year was the Christmas edition. The picture for the front page was designed by senior Dave Helbert and was transmitted by means of silk screening. Staff members along with Mr. Joel Plum donated their time and efforts to that piece of art.

Preparing their stories for the next issue are reporters Polly VanZile, Roger Noel, Larry Barnhart, and Tom Wheeler.

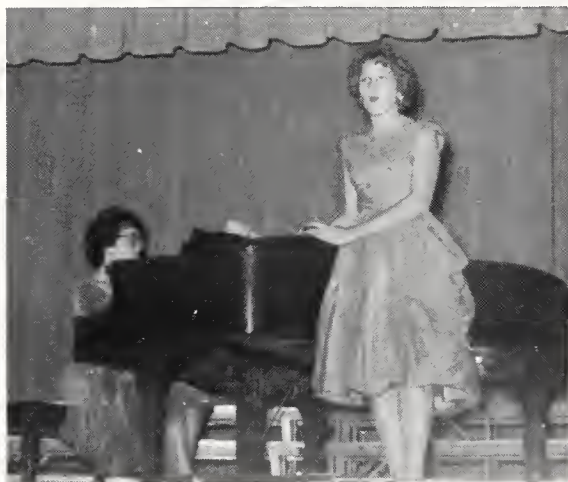

Becky Steward assists Mr. Plum with the silk screen in making the Christmas newspapers as Doug Frazee watches.

Composing the Teenettes are:

During the year the chorus members are kept busy with many activities. In November, they hold a Thanksgiving concert for the student body, with the ensembles participating. They also present a Christmas concert in December for the PTA.

In January, the ensembles and solo-

Charging and Cheering

An important part of our train to success is the world of sports in which character, stamina, and skill are developed.

The Railroader train ran over much opposition in the past year. The engines displayed their power throughout the trip against all opponents.

Season's Scoreboard

	We	They
New Haven	6	37
Decatur	6	0
K-Ville	13	19
Bluffton	13	6
Elmhurst	27	6
Concordia	14	6
Angola	12	12
Auburn	16	12

Garrett's Railroaders ended the season in a thrilling game with Auburn by winning 16-12. Garrett's strong offensive line and hard-running backs did the trick. It was a hard-fought contest down to the final second, but Garrett held on to win.

A 5-2-1 record was good enough to give us a second place in NEIC Conference play. New Haven won the race for the Conference Championship with a very impressive 8-0 record.

Garrett's only losses were to New Haven and the very worked-up K'ville team. The Railroaders and the Angola Hornets fought to a well-played 12-12 tie.

All in all the Railroaders had a good season bringing back to GHS some of the gridiron tradition which has made Garrett a strong contender for the Conference Championship every year.

The powerful Railroader line shows why they dominated the Elmhurst game as they are completely tearing the Trojan line apart.

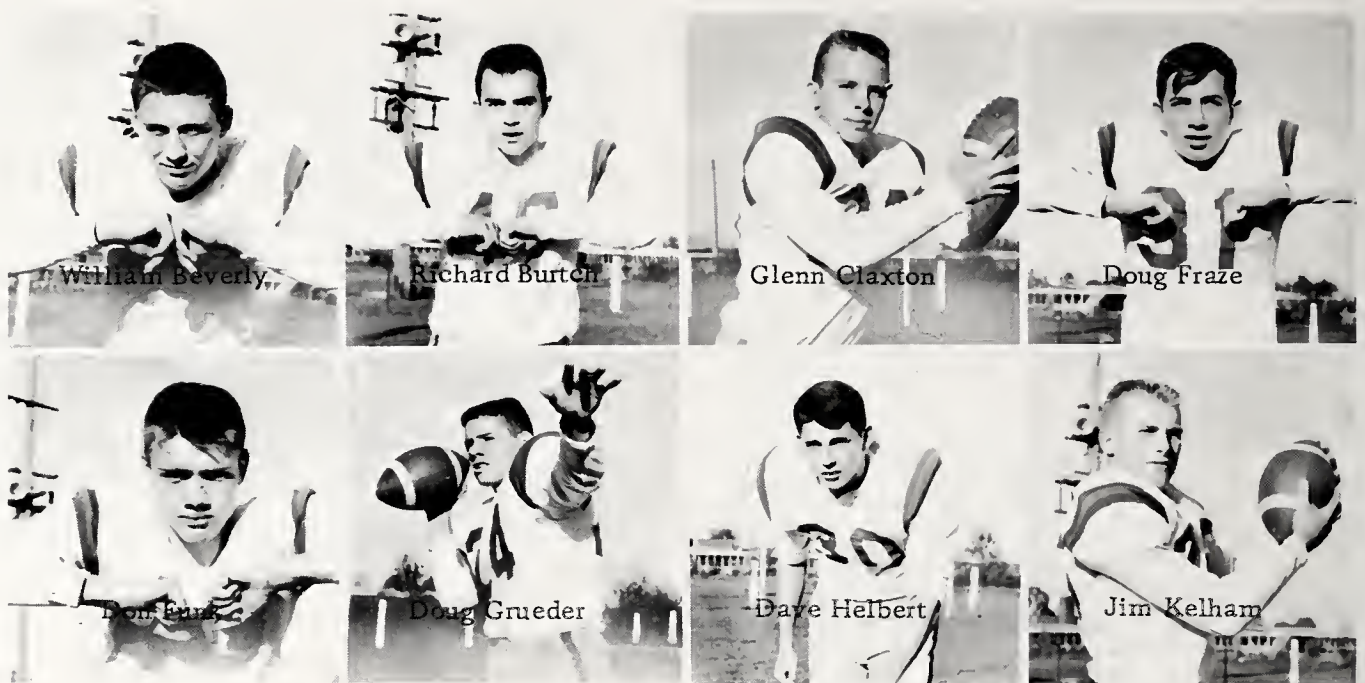

Tom Steinmetz dives on a loose ball in an exciting play as Garrett conquers Elmhurst.

Follow Team Through Frustrating Year

Although it took a little while for the Railroaders to get started cutting the nets, they finally got rolling at the end of the season.

The team suffered from inexperience and lack of height during the first half of the season; however, following a near-victory over mighty Bluffton, the boys got on the right track and the train steamrolled onward.

By Sectional time, the team was tasting a trophy. After mopping up the Hamilton Marines, the tourney twelve was stopped by a fired-up Butler squad in an exciting game, 56-54.

A game to be remembered was the exciting Harlan game where the Railroaders scored an overtime victory by sinking a last second shot.

Tom Funk led the team in scoring for the year. With a young squad, Garrett should make up for an 8-14 record in future years.

Senior Tom Steinmetz shoots another jumpshot through the nets as Garrett smashes Avilla. Tom led seniors in scoring for the year.

Excitement and Competition

The Reserve team this year had an especially good year with a record of 15-5. The team was almost unbeatable through the season, but lost two games in the Kokomo Tourney.

The Frosh team had a season at almost the opposite end as they had a 3-17 record. With experience, the Frosh are expected to be very tough in the future.

Leading the pep squad in a yell are the varsity cheerleaders, Kathy Buckles, Marcia Tharpe, and Donna Musser.

JoEllen Moses, Mickey Wade, and Sandra Gnagy support the Handcars as reserve cheerleaders.

Beginning its first year here, the C Team had a successful year. The team consists of freshman, sophomore, and junior boys who did not see much action on the freshman and reserve team. Replacing the intramural team, the C Team is coached by Mr. Pearson. Four victories and three losses filled their record.

Thinlies Break Record

The flying feet of the Garrett track squad marked a record breaking season in several events.

Led by Jerry Thomas, the track boys were almost invincible in many meets. Jerry set records in the high and low hurdles, and had the best time in other events. Pat Nixon set a record in the high jump. Coach Dick Capin had a good squad and good reason to be proud.

Ace hurdler Jerry Thomas leads in the low hurdles, bringing the Railroaders another victory.

Senior Joe Zerns heaves the shot in a warm-up before a track meet.

Studying and Striving

Our train to success could not be complete without the engineers--the faculty members. The most important function of our train is to enrich our minds. This is carried out in the classrooms where the teachers start the engine and speed it on its journey.

Mr. Hudson directs activities.

Mr. Cale Hudson, Superintendent

The Railroader train continued to make much progress this past year with the assistance of Mr. Cale Hudson, Superintendent, and the members of the School Board.

Many improvements were made over the summer. The most noticeable of these were the new furniture and general new decor of the typing room.

The curriculum was expanded to include physical science and citizenship. These new courses were very well received.

Important school matters are discussed by the school board members. SEATED are Emory Heitz and Arthur Hall. STANDING are Eugene Yarde, Raymond Burtch, and George Wade.

Mr. Ben Simpson, Principal

Mr. Lynn Bollinger, Assistant Principal

Principals give leadership, guidance.

Leadership in the high school itself was provided by Mr. Ben Simpson, principal, and Mr. Bollinger, assistant principal.

A new split-shift system was introduced, and an increased number of classrooms was available. Homeroom and clubs alternated every week for a full fifty-five minute period.

An increased curriculum and new equipment in the science and math departments greatly improved the facilities of the school.

Practice makes perfect as first year Latin students Patsy Eberhard, Derek Heinzerling, George Rugman, and Dave Platner drill over pronunciation.

OH-EE-AH and sounds corresponding to these issued from rooms four and seventeen during the past year, as foreign language students practiced pronouncing the sounds of words.

Latin I and II, and Spanish I are the foreign languages taught at Garrett High. These help the student to understand better the neighbors in surrounding countries, and give him an increased vocabulary and a better knowledge of his own language.

Foreign language is an important part of the curriculum, and widens the students' interest in the present day world, and the world of the past.

Languages lead to understanding.

First year Spanish students Marcia Tharpe, Ginny Leech, and Ann Wysong, gain fluency by pronouncing the names of Mexican cities.

ELIZABETH LOVE--Latin I,II; Latin Club Advisor; Sophomore Advisor. HUBERT STACKHOUSE--Literature 11,12; Speech, Citizenship, Spanish, Student Council Advisor; Senior Advisor.

RICHARD BRATTON--Bookkeeping, General Business, Business Geography, Jr. Hi-Y Advisor, 8th grade advisor. DORIS MENGES--Typing I, English 7, Y-Teen Advisor, 9th grade advisor. SARAH ELDRIDGE--Shorthand I-II, Typing II, Junior Advisor, Blue Triangle Advisor.

Seniors Pat Bartles and Nadene Cutler strive for accuracy and speed in their second-year typing course.

Business produces usable skills.

In a time when the business world is crying for better clerical workers, the business section of G.H.S. has taken on new importance.

Typing, shorthand, and other business courses enhance the student's ability to venture into the outside world and seek a job with confidence.

The training given to G.H.S. students will make their future employers proud to utilize them.

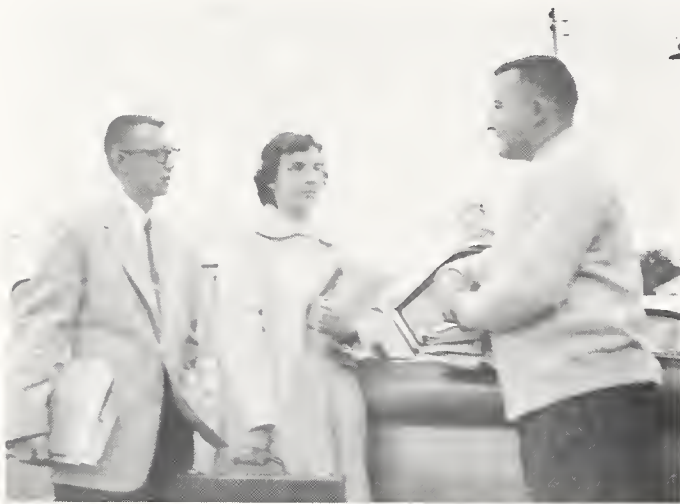

Sally Weimer, Sophomore Bookkeeping student, seems quite intent on finishing her practice set before the bell.

Senior Composition students Joe Zerns, Kenny Barry, John Kelley, and Larry Lovette seem quite engrossed in their work as they prepare for a class discussion.

The American Language has a difficult makeup and is perhaps one of the most difficult languages to master in the world.

As in every other year, the students in G.H.S. were given excellent training and leadership in learning how to use the English Language.

Composition, speech, and the basic grammatical fundamentals prepared students for college and future life.

vast region of knowledge

The language arts department in Garrett High School is involved in many more phases of our language than the basic grammatical fundamentals.

Journalism, public speaking, dramatics, and literature are an important part of the curriculum.

Guidance tests were taken, and information was distributed in English classes this year since activity period was eliminated.

Senior Journalism students Larry Steffen and Joe Oberlin scan the headlines as they prepare their next assignment.

Dick Pickard, Susan Jay, Linda Parker, and Glenda Wentland seem quite occupied by the guidance tests being administered by Mrs. Mellott to all Freshmen.

Junior chemists Mike Moody and Dan Haffner seem quite startled by a reaction in first year chemistry.

Sciences Open Door to

The science department of G.H.S. gained new prominence this year with our country engaged in a science battle with other nations. New emphasis was placed on more modern science and on recently discovered facts. The atom gained new prominence in every branch of science.

Joe Griffin receives first place in the regional science fair from Dr. Bryce Twitty. This entitled Joe to enter his project in the national science fair at Kansas City, Missouri.

Physics students Tom Baldwin, Bill Murley, Alan Leiter, and Jerry Thomas experiment with an inclined plane.

Freshmen Carol Schurr and Connie Fetter complete information for their leaf collection in biology class.

Modern World.

The science curriculum at G.H.S. was enriched this year with the addition of Physical Science for the practical students who have no desire to advance to high college science. Advanced chemistry gained a solid position in the school and prepared students for the modern scientific research so important to our nation.

Eighth grade science students Cindy Lewis and Alice Kelham converse on a telephone while Larry Thrush demonstrates how their connection may be cut.

PAUL BATEMAN--Biology, Agriculture, FFA, Operator's Club. CLEO MILLER--Jr. Hi Science, 8th grade Advisor. JACK BATEMAN--Biology, Chemistry, Science Club Advisor.

Randy Tustison explains one of the finer points of Jr. Hi Geography to Kathy Campbell.

Sophomore History students Carol Rugman, Jim White, Echo Lewis, and Alan Rapp carry on a panel discussion pertaining to current world events.

Social studies in G.H.S. have for their purpose the education of students in the past history of the world, the present state of affairs, and where we are going.

From the caveman to the United Nations--through World History, U.S. History, and Civics and Economics--the story of our world is presented to every student at G.H.S. A thorough understanding of our government and its functions is important to every citizen, and the citizens of G.H.S. are well prepared.

Senior Civics Student Tom Steinmetz raises his hand in question of our nation's governmental functions as Marilyn Payton and Dianne Wetoskey look on.

Math, so essential in the modern world, is stressed at Garrett High for all students. In Jr. High, math is a required subject, and in high school it is largely an elective.

General and Business Math, Algebra, Plane Geometry, Advanced Math, Trig., and Analytical Geometry made up the high school math courses offered this year. These courses were valuable to students in planning their futures, from figuring everyday expenses to launching a rocket.

Freshman Harold Werkheiser watches as Dawn Fleet explains a multiplication problem in first year Algebra.

Mathematics develop future leaders.

Bill Corry, Sophomore, puts to use one of the many skills of measurement learned in Geometry class.

WILLIAM LINDER--Algebra II, Physical Science, Trigonometry, Physics, Science Club Advisor, 7th grade advisor. GRAY WOODCOX--Jr.-Hi Arithmetic, 8th grade advisor. JOHN FLORA--9th grade arithmetic, General Math, Algebra I, Jr. Hi-Y Advisor, Freshman Advisor. RICHARD CAPIN--Geometry, Arithmetic, Gym, Football and Track Coach.

Ruth Crager, Lorna Wessel, and Darlene Crager learn many new skills in Home Economics Class.

JENNY SMITH--Homemaking Jr. Hi, High School.
WILLIAM SCHAFER--Safety, Gym, Health, Industrial Arts, 7th grade advisor. DON STEWARD--Shop 7,8, High School; 9th grade advisor, Hi-Y advisor.

The vocational arts courses at G.H.S. provide students with the training necessary for future use, both practical and professional.

Industrial Arts, Home Economics, and Agriculture provide this training and send the students into life well prepared.

Charles Handshoe strives for perfection in his shop project as John Colgan and Mike Summers look on.

Randy Tustison admires the soap carvings made by the junior high art classes.

Music and art provided the students of G.H.S. with an understanding of self-expression and of the inner person.

The beauty of life was taught to each student, and each was allowed to display his various skills. To add a more enjoying side to the music and arts department, various posters were made and songs were learned.

Educated and Energetic

Our train to success could never be complete without the high school. The highest point of the trip is the time at which we become upperclassmen.

Led by the conductors for the trip, the seniors, the high school is a bustle of activity, excitement, and high education. The student becomes a passenger who may purchase a ticket which may take him on any path he may choose.

The "cream of the crop" in the senior class are the students who gain a four year average of 3.125 out of 4.000. These students become class honor students. The honor student receiving the highest average is classified as valedictorian, while the second highest is salutatorian of the class.

The honor students of the class of 1962 have been depicted doing the things that they are best known for.

Leading the Senior Class of 1962 was the job entrusted to: Marilyn Reed, Secretary; Thomas Steinmetz, Vice-president; Jerry Thomas, President; and Cynthia Schaab, Treasurer.

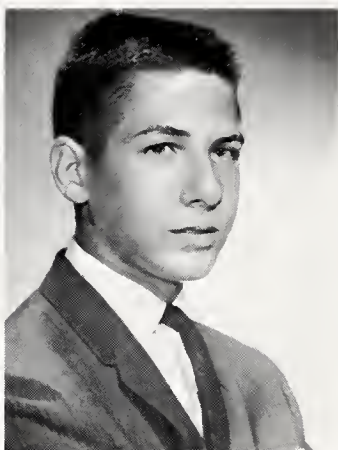

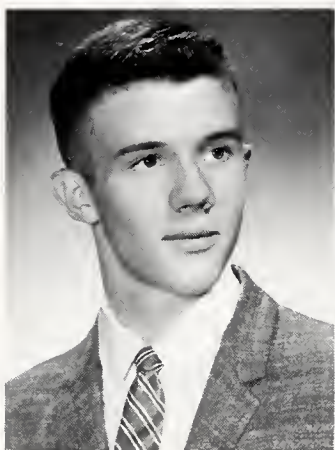

Officers Meet Senior Challenge.

To be given an office as a leader in the senior class is one of the greatest honors of GHS. Just as the honor is great, so is the responsibility tremendous. Throughout the years the seniors have selected students of outstanding ability to be their leaders. This past year was far from being an exception.

Aiding the senior officers in their duties were: Mr. Virgil Finchum, Mrs. Hildreth Sweeney, Mr. Kenneth Richardson, Mr. Hubert Stackhouse, and Mrs. Mary Mellott, the class sponsors.

Mrs. Mellott and Mrs. Sweeney, two of the senior sponsors, discuss plans for the next home room meeting.

Mrs. Kizer, Office Secretary, measures Mike Johnston for ordering the senior caps and gowns.

Jovial and Jubilant

Our train could not be completed without the passengers on the caboose, the junior high members. Students anxious to go to lunch and get out of school, the junior high members are a constant bustle of activity. Their only means of transportation is the bicycle; nevertheless, they get as much mileage with a bike as many people do with a car.

The junior high cheering section lends extra voices to the pep squad at all home games.

The twirlers for the junior high band are: Jeanne Helbert, Lois White, Mary Lynn Neukom, Jerilyn Kock, Claudia Miller, and Jeanne Ervin.

Junior High time

Pramod Carpenter, eighth grader appears to be making good use of his study hall time.

Going to the eighth grade picnic are Maxine Gravitt, Diana Caywood, and Rick Mellott.

Jim Gamble, Jim Pierson, Chuck Bavis, Don Johnson, and Max Smith watch as Keith Heffelfinger shows his skill with the Yo-yo.

goes unwasted . . .

The highlight of the eighth grade picnic was eating in the pavillion.

In Jr. High we have fun, learn, and begin the process of becoming adults. From showing skill in dancing and the yo-yo, to winning basketball games, the seventh and eighth grades are packed with fun and excitement.

The favorite time of day for Jr. High students is the lunch period. This is not too much different from the High School, so maybe it is a sign of adulthood.

Among the Jr-Hi noon activities are volleyball and basketball in the auditorium.

Steve Smith goes up for a shot as the seventh grade team opposes the eighth grade in a scrimmage.

Leading the eighth grade cheers are Nancy Capin, Kathy Barcus, and Cindy Lewis.

Participation in sports

The yell leaders for the seventh grade are Debbie Buckles, Rhonda Ballentine, and Carole DeLong.

Three of the janitors, Ervin Reed, Loel Johnson, and Estelle Getts, are familiar faces around the halls keeping our school spotless.

The graduation ceremony at G.H.S. symbolizes an end to a beginning. New fields will soon open to each graduate.

Success!!!

Now we come to the end of our journey. Our train has reached its final terminal. However, is this really the end? No, the train to success never stops running. It is always picking up new passengers and taking on new crews. Many times the former travelers become the engineers.

The end of the trip should not be called the end. Instead it should be labeled "the beginning." There are new fields to be explored, new lessons to be learned, and new challenges to be met. There will always be the engineers to keep the train running, and there will always be the passengers who have the desire to learn.
